HOSPITAL COSTS UP FOR STUDY

The board of supervisors and Walter T. Kellogg, county-manager appointee, spent the day in conference Wednesday on the 1933-34 budget for the Community Hospital. The group met at the hospital to confer with the management.

Kellogg, who took the oath of office yesterday, but who will not become manager-in-fact until July 1, is studying appointments which he will be called upon to make soon.

These appointments include a director of health and welfare, a building inspector, a purchasing agent and a board of health and welfare and recreation commission. Mr. Kellogg will also be called upon to name his own office personnel, and to find office space for himself in the already crowded courthouse.

Principal appointments, such as county engineer, recorder, treasurer, etc., will not come up until January, 1935, when the present elective terms of the officers expire.

One of the first major changes to be made by the new manager is that of consolidating the five road districts into one.

The director of health and welfare will be a new full-time appointee, replacing the present county physician. The board of health and welfare will be composed of two doctors, a sanitary engineer, a layman, and the county superintendent of schools.

In appointing the director of health and welfare, Kellogg is to confer with the board of health and welfare.

All appointments are subject to approval by the supervisors.

Kellogg faced the prospect today of giving a month of his services free to the county.

His salary is not expected to begin until July 1 when the office is created by the charter, which then becomes effective. Kellogg, meanwhile, is off the payroll of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, of which he was manager. He was forced to resign to accept the new post.

District Attorney Edmund Scott has asked Attorney General U. S. Webb for a ruling as to Kellogg's payroll status.

Graduates of Sequoia Hear Dr. Pendleton

A feature of the service was the singing of "Sanctus" by the Sequoia choir in black and white robes. O. M. Carrington, director, played the piano accompaniment. The Sequoia male quartet also sang.

The service marked the opening of Senior Week activities.

Kellogg Takes Oath, Studies Charter Aims

Appointee Prepares To Take Over Job July First

Walter T. Kellogg, San Mateo county's new county manager-appointee, Wednesday took the oath of office and prepared to familiarize himself with the new duties which he assumes July 1.

Mr. Kellogg conferred with a number of county officers and opened a temporary office at the courthouse. Office space was given him by Purchasing Agent Ernest Werder.

The appointee is not now on the county payroll, or are any of his acts formal.

The appointment is not effective until July 1, when the county's first manager assumes control.

Kellogg was receiving the congratulations and felicitations of friends today.

MEMORY OF WAR'S DEAD IS REVERED

Patriotic rites Tuesday called Redwood City citizens from their daily routine to pause in memory of those less fortunate who gave their lives on the field of battle and service in the interest of peace.

Keynoting Redwood City's annual Memorial Day service this morning in the Sequoia Theater, Judge Fletcher A. Cutler of Burlingame gave the main address on "The Grand Army and Americanism." He traced in the constitutional guarantees the ideals for which the first American patriots fought at Lexington and Concord, the principles which were preserved by the victory of the Union in the Civil War, and the democracy and nationalism for which the United States forces fought and won after subsequent struggles.

After the exercises, veterans' organizations and civic groups led by the Sequoia Union High School band joined in a parade to the Union Cemetery, where the Gen. George S. Evans Relief Corps decorated graves.

County Clerk Elmore B. Hinman, a member of Capt. H. J. Reilly camp, United Spanish War Veterans, presided at the program at the theater. While the audience sang the national anthem, the colors of the Woman's Relief Corps, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Spanish War Veterans and their auxiliaries were advanced to the stage to form a background for the speakers.

The Rev. Norman Pendleton offered the invocation, and Mayor William Dusel gave a welcoming speech. Mrs. Anna Bennett-Robb of the legion auxiliary spoke on Memorial Day, and Alice Swift recited the Gettysburg Address of Lincoln.

Musical selections included a violin solo by Lillian Troub, accompanied by Rea Manning; a song by Otis M. Carrington's Sequoia chorus, and vocal solo by Thomas Vernall. Singing of "America" and sounding of taps concluded the exercises.

Veterans' units, with a firing squad and the American Legion drum corps, formed the parade, of which Dr. John N. Blood was marshal. Boy Scouts under Scoutmaster Robert Archibald served as a rear guard, and the Redwood City Police Department and Fire Department under Chief C. L. Collins and Chief Mark E. Ryan participated.

Following the decoration of graves and a salute by the firing squad, the Rev. Harry C. Allan officiated at the cemetery service, and taps concluded the official observance.

Seniors Hold Class Day at High School

As a part of the senior week program at Sequoia Union High School, the graduating seniors held their annual Class Day program in the auditorium during the fifth and sixth periods yesterday.

John Merrill, president of the senior class, presented the key of knowledge to George Farrell, president of the junior class. Mildred Dodge played several popular selections on the piano and Hugo Endrigo read the class will and individual wills of the seniors.

"And the Villain Still Pursued Her" was the title of a one-act burlesque produced on the program by several students of drama, under their own supervision.

Following the program the senior girls had their annual tea, and to complete the day for the seniors the alumni-senior banquet and dance was held in the evening.

Federal Government Cannot Aid Harbor Except Through Creation of Legal District

About 40 years ago the federal government began giving assistance in the maintenance of a channel for commercial shipping in Redwood creek. The co-operation of the federal government has been constant since that time.

The present case is the first effort to create a channel sufficient to be used for what is known as deep water shipping. The federal government in a decision last week approved the case and authorized the expenditure of $188,000 for channel and turning basin to be dredged to a depth of 27 feet with a two-foot overdraft. It is expected that this project will be included in the public works bill, according to Congressman John J. McGrath.

This project will not affect Port San Francisco, the waterfront of Belmont, except in a beneficial way. The federal government has approved the dredging of San Bruno Shoals in the event that the deep water harbor is constructed either in Redwood creek or that Port San Jose is built on the mouth of Guadalupe river farther down the bay.

The government could not do this in co-operation with a private project such as the owners of Port San Francisco intended their project to be.

About 1100 acres of the property of the Harbor Development Company, owners of Port San Francisco, have frontage on Redwood Creek. All of this property should be most beneficially affected by the proposed development on Redwood creek. It is believed that all of the project known as Port San Francisco would be helped in steps toward actual development by the building of the first unit of a deep water harbor in Redwood creek.

Development in Port San Francisco would simply mean additional slips of one general harbor development. The government would be in the project to maintain the channels and turning basin because they can co-operate with a public harbor district but they would not be in the project and there would be no certainty of the maintenance of channels, etc., unless a public harbor were started on Redwood creek or somewhere in San Mateo county.

The question has been asked whether the three commissioners who will be elected if the harbor matter carries in the election of June 27 will have the power to order that the harbor be built. The answer is that they have no such power.

The only means by which any funds can be advanced by the district for the building of the harbor is by an election and a two-thirds vote of the people in favor of putting up such funds. The harbor project cannot possibly be built on funds drafted by the Board of Harbor Commissioners.

It is hoped by the San Mateo county harbor committee that after an official Board of Harbor Commissioners is elected that the government may make a grant out of the public works bill sufficient to build the first unit of the harbor development as a work relief measure.

It is impossible to even start negotiations with the government in such a matter until there is an official harbor district and an official harbor board to do business with the government. That is the practical and principal need of creating the harbor district at this time.

Fight Opens To Legalize Pari-Mutuel

California's breeders of thoroughbred racehorses, scattered throughout the state, have started their earnest drive to have the electorate of the state approve the racing bill at the polls on June 27.

The measure that will legalize pari-mutuel wagering in connection with the contests of the thoroughbreds, recently was placed on the June ballot by act of the legislature, receiving a strong vote in the assembly and then being approved by the senate in an overwhelming manner.

The Pacific Coast Breeders' Association, the organization that several years ago began the arduous fight of bringing thoroughbred racing back to California, where by right of heritage it belongs, has been notified by its hundreds of members throughout the state the campaign is underway in their various communities.

Northern California, as has been its custom in the past, stands ready to go to the polls strongly behind the measure. Always, the northern sector, expressing its natural liberalism, has given any measure of this type strong backing and with its support generally has overcome any opposition in the south.

The provisions of the bill, as outlined in the booklet issued in Sacramento, are for 66 days of racing in communities of 500,000 or more, these 66 days to be divided into two meetings, spring and fall.

She makes frequent visits to those scenes.

School Tax Lift Sought By Committee

With Daniel R. Stafford, former Redwood City mayor, acting as chairman, a Citizens' Committee is now contacting the voters of this district in a campaign to acquaint the public with desirable features of proposition four at the coming June 27 special election.

The proposition, which is a constitutional amendment exempting private non-profit schools from taxation, was placed on the ballot after unanimous approval by the state assembly and a 34-2 vote in the senate. It is intended to lighten the financial burden on private schools now suffering from loss of funds, thus enabling them to continue their function of educating thousands of children who would otherwise have to be educated at state expense.

William Warren is secretary of the committee, which includes as chief speakers Paul A. McCarthy and Frank C. Brandeburg. An auxiliary women's organization has also been effected.

Doxsee Will Make Trip to Des Moines

Mr. C. M. Doxsee will leave next Wednesday for his old home in Des Moines, Iowa, to be gone for a month or more. He makes this trip annually. This year he is to be honored by his alma mater, the Iowa State College, which will give him a gold medal. It is the custom of the college to give this token to every graduate that survives 50 years. Mr. Doxsee received his degree just fifty years ago and goes back to have the honor bestowed upon him by the president of the institution located at Ames, the childhood home of Mr. Doxsee. While there he will visit his large ranch holdings.

Introduced by Jack Murphy, 32, a resolution against leasing campus property for business was unanimously adopted.

Mr. DeGroot, head football coach at San Jose State College and former Stanford captain, told of previous years in athletics at Sequoia and of their place in relation to education.

Principal Argo urged renewal of close alumni interest in activities of the high school.

In order to provide means of contracting the ever-increasing members of the alumni association, an executive board, made up of a representative from each class from 1898 to 1933, was organized by Elbert Thomas, '24, past president af the alumni.

Philharmonic Musical Fare To Be Varied

Different Types of Composition and Expression

The programs for the series of Sunday afternoon concerts to be given during the summer in the open air Woodland Theatre at Hillsborough under the auspices of the Philharmonic Society of San Mateo county will offer an interesting variety of musical fare according to Mrs. Leonora Wood Armsby, chairman of the music committee who is now corresponding with the several guest conductors scheduled to appear in the peninsula theatre.

The three directors who will wield the baton for the entire personnel of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra engaged for these concerts, are representative of entirely different nationalities and backgrounds of training and experience which are inevitably reflected in their artistic expression.

Molinari Popular

Bernardino Molinari, the dynamic and fiery Italian maestro, who will inaugurate the series on Sunday, June 25, has achieved a popularity with the summer symphony audiences through his annual visits that is seldom accorded occasional directors. The acclaim tendered the eminent Roman leader last winter at the final concerts which he conducted in the opera house during the regular symphony season assumed the proportions of ovations which were climaxed with the entire audience rising in tribute as the conductor appeared time and time again to acknowledge the long continued applause.

Dr. Hanson Coming

A young American composer-conductor, Dr. Howard Hanson, to whom California may make some claim, as he taught for over five years at the College of the Pacific when it was located in San Jose, will make his first appearance at these summer concerts on July 9, which will be his only engagement on the Pacific coast this summer. Dr. Hanson, who is now director of the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, will present a program representative of American composers, including some of his own works.

The final concerts will be conducted by Ossip Gabrilowitsch, who since 1918 has been the regular director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in addition to his many appearances each season as concert pianist. Gabrilowitsch conducted several concerts each of the first three seasons in the Woodland Theatre, and his return after an absence of five years is eagerly anticipated.

Following the presentation of the class by Principal A. C. Argo, James D. Hedge, president of the board of trustees, will bestow upon the graduates their diplomas.

Carrington to winners of the following: Carrington scholarship medal, Ross debate medal, Williams athletic medal for boys, Argo-Bogie athletic medal for girls, Walsh history medal, Drake shopcraft medals, student body service medals and the Sequoia Players drama award.

Planning the event are the class advisors, Miss Vivian Melton and Edwin De Smith.

EDITORIALS

EXCELLENT CHOICE

The selection of Walter T. Kellogg by the board of supervisors last Monday as county manager under the new charter is a splendid one. Mr. Kellogg is qualified in every way for the position. His long service with the Pacific Gas and Electric Company in managing its huge affairs has given him an experience which will aid him in grappling with the manifold duties as manager. He has a tremendous task in reorganizing the county government under the new charter.

Mr. Kellogg has ability and courage to accomplish big things for the county. He should have the support and cooperation of all in his work. The supervisors are certain to back him in his efforts to reduce taxes and to give the county an economical and efficient administration.

The supervisors can be congratulated upon their choice. They could not have made a better one.

SHOULD BE EXEMPT

The voters of the state are urged to vote "Yes" on proposition No. 4 at the special election to be held on June 27 calling for exemption of private non-profit schools.

Leading economists and tax experts of the state have endorsed this measure as sound, just and necessary legislation. After careful study, members of the assembly UNANIMOUSLY voted in favor.

After a similar study, members of the senate, with only two dissenting votes, voted in favor.

Voters are becoming aroused to the serious consequences that would ensue were children now attending private schools thrown into the state school system at a time when overcrowding would result and when it is impossible to sell bonds for the construction of new school buildings and furnishing of equipment and equally impossible to increase the taxpayers burden to cover the operation throughout the state.

No Charge Is Filed Yet in Lamson Death

Grand Jury Probe at San Jose Seen as Possibility

NEW THEORIES

'Apparently' Four Blows Struck, Says Surgeon

PALO ALTO, June 1.—"Apparently four blows" caused the wound in the back of Mrs. Allene Lamson's head, which resulted in her death at the Lamson home on the Stanford University campus Tuesday, an autopsy surgeon was quoted as saying today.

The surgeon was Dr. Milton H. Saier, who said that gashes in the scalp and a skull fracture were the results of "apparently" four blows.

Meanwhile, campus friends of David Lamson, husband of the young dead woman, stoutly insisted that the latter was the victim of a fall in her bathtub.

Lamson is held in the jail at San Jose. No charge has been placed against him.

Palo Alto police and other authorities working on the case, in support of the theory that Mrs. Lamson was murdered, called attention to the location of bloodstains in the house and other circumstances which, they said, tended to show that she was not in the bathtub when the blow was struck.

Veterans May Join Conservation Work

Unemployed veterans of the World War, now residing in the Pacific states will have the opportunity of enrolling in a special unit of the emergency conservation work.

R. E. Arne, director of war service for the American Red Cross, today notified the Redwood City Red Cross chapter to this effect on receipt of advices from Brigadier General Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator at Washington, D. C.

Enrollment of 25,000 unemployed World War veterans was authorized in an executive order issued by President Roosevelt, May 11.

Pending the completion of definite plans for the veterans' unit, tentative registers are being opened at veterans' administration offices, for veterans who desire to make final application for camp.

Selections of veterans will be based on state and local quotas, following the same plan adopted in the mobilization of the civilian corps under the leadership of Robert Fechner, director of emergency conservation work camps.

The executive order provides that the veterans' contingent shall be made a separate part of the organization and a distinctive part of the enterprise.

In the meantime veterans are urged to remain in their own home towns and states, pending public announcement that plans have been completed for their enrollment in the conservation work.
